A Message from the Co-Chairs

Dr. Charles Helm
SOUTH PEACE DIVISION OF FAMILY PRACTICE CO-CHAIR

Dr. Magda Steenkamp
SOUTH PEACE DIVISION OF FAMILY PRACTICE CO-CHAIR

As we reflect on the past year, we want to begin by recognizing the extraordinary commitment of the physicians, nurse practitioners and healthcare providers who continue to show up every day for patients, families, and communities across the South Peace. This has not been an easy year. Our communities have experienced profound moments of loss, including the tragedy in Tumbler Ridge, alongside continued health human resource pressures and the very real challenges of maintaining provider well-being, work-life balance, and sustainable rural practice. We recognize the weight carried by those working on the front lines, and we are deeply grateful for the compassion, resilience, and commitment demonstrated throughout our region.

What continues to stand out is the way our providers and communities come together. Rural practice asks a great deal of people, but it also creates something incredibly special: strong relationships, collaboration, innovation, and a willingness to step forward for one another when it matters most.

This is at the heart of the South Peace Division of Family Practice.

Our role is to bring providers together, strengthen their collective voice, build meaningful partnerships, and help shape a healthcare system that reflects the realities of rural practice, while also celebrating the joys of rurality. Guided by our strategic priorities, we continue to focus on growing and strengthening the Division through partnerships, operationalizing the South Peace Primary Care Network, strengthening residency training through collaboration, and supporting retention, recruitment, and workforce strength.

These priorities are interconnected. A strong rural healthcare system requires a sustainable workforce. A sustainable workforce requires opportunities for learners to experience and understand rural medicine. It requires strong partnerships, innovative models of care, and, most importantly, an environment where providers feel supported, connected, and able to build both a practice and a life in our communities.

There is so much to celebrate about practicing medicine in the South Peace. Rural practice provides opportunities to build meaningful relationships with patients, practice full-scope rural medicine, lead change, and make an extraordinary impact within a community. At the same time, we recognize the demands and complexities that come with providing care in a rural setting.

Our commitment as a Division is to continue bringing providers and partners together, elevating the provider voice, and working collaboratively to create the conditions that allow rural practice—and the people who make it possible—to thrive.

To our members, partners, staff, and communities: thank you for continuing to show up, collaborate, challenge us to think differently, and work alongside one another toward a stronger and more sustainable future for healthcare in the South Peace.

We are proud of what has been accomplished together and look forward to continuing this work in the year ahead.

Dr. Charles Helm & Dr. Magda Steenkamp

While pace restrictions limited the anticipated speed of implementation, the South Peace PCN continued moving from planning toward action, advancing approved strategies, workforce planning and coordinated approaches to primary care.

IMPROVING ACCESS

Successfully soft-launched the Episodic Care Clinic, creating an additional care pathway while continuing to improve referrals, workflows and patient access.

PCN IMPACT

Operationalized new PCN services, care pathways and infrastructure moving toward a more connected primary care system for patients and providers.

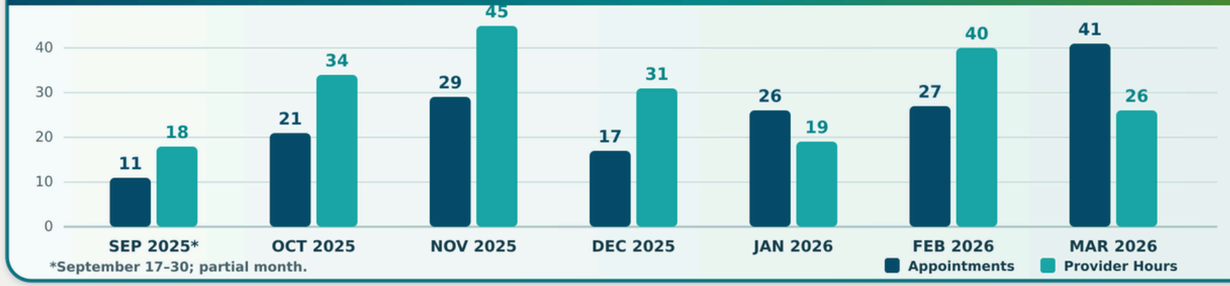

Across Tumbler Ridge, Chetwynd and Dawson Creek, 2025/26 was a year of listening, connecting and supporting locally led ideas. The PCN worked alongside physicians and providers, communities and partners to build relationships, identify opportunities, remove barriers and help priorities move from conversation toward action.

Episodic Care Clinic Launch

The Episodic Care Clinic soft-launched at Rimrock Health Centre on September 17, 2025. This Primary Care Network strategy aims to improve access to care for vulnerable, medically complex patients who are unattached. The clinic is referral-based, with team-based care delivered both in person and virtually.
